COMMENTS: He is now retired, but after my election in 1999, he attempted to abide by all local, state and federal rules as they apply to people elected to public office — You will find that in my 20 years of service, he was late twice — The first time was a result of having someone new file his reports, but in this instance the young woman who took over the job was diagnosed with oral cancer and is still undergoing treatment in Houston — He did not mention this for sympathy purposes as he realizes that he was the candidate and the mistake ultimately was mine — He simply hope to appeal to someone's sense of fairness.

Attention: Ms. Mellissa Horn

Dear Ms. Horn:

As per our conversation, I am submitting my letter to ask for a waiver of the $480 fine for an 8 day late 2017 Campaign Finance Disclosure Report – I am now retired, but after my election in 1999 I attempted to abide by all local, state and federal rules as they apply to people elected to public office – I think you will find that in my 20 years of service, I was late twice – The first time was a result of having someone new file my reports, but in this instance the young woman who took over the job was diagnosed with oral cancer and is still undergoing treatment in Houston – I do not mention this for sympathy purposes as I realize that I was the candidate and the mistake ultimately was mine – I simply hope to appeal to someone's sense of fairness that with many current and previous candidates owing thousand of dollars in uncollected fines, $480 for a 8 date late report is very excessive

Thank you for your time,
